

1. The problem- please replace "frail seniors" with "some seniors"
2. We're your partner section

Current:

"Caring for an aging parent—especially one who can't easily leave home—is exhausting. You're juggling appointments, medications, and worry. You're wondering if you're doing enough, or if something is being missed."

Change to:

"caring for an aging parent-especially one who can't easily leave home- can be exhausting."

3. C.V bundle- let me know what you think:

(maybe a linear timeline graphic & consolidate landing page as much as possible by breaking out sections to individual pages)

About Dr. Matulis

After years caring for older adults in traditional internal medicine settings, Dr. Matulis recognized that many patients need something different — more time, deeper relationships, and a physician who truly knows them — which led to the creation of Second Mountain Internal Medicine, P.C.

Career timeline

2010

Graduated from University of New England College of Osteopathic Medicine

2013

Completed Internal Medicine Residency at Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center

2015

Completed Leadership & Preventive Medicine Residency at Dartmouth-Hitchcock, earning his Masters in Public Health

2015–2025

Staff Internist at Mayo Clinic

Vice Chair, Quality & Innovation

Faculty Leader, Mayo Clinic Quality Academy

2025

Returned to Maine and founded Second Mountain Internal Medicine, P.C.

Credentials & experience (visual “chips”)

- Board-Certified: Internal Medicine & Preventive Medicine
 - Master of Public Health (MPH)
 - 30+ peer-reviewed publications
 - Formal leadership training in quality improvement & health-system design
 - Mayo Clinic Educator Award (top 10% of Internal Medicine educators)
 - Multiple Mayo Clinic Innovation Awards
-

Outside the clinic

Dr. Matulis is happy to be back in Maine where he lives in Hebron, with his wife Katie, daughter Mary Ann, and son Frankie. He also has a dog, sweetie and two cats: flora and spencer. Much of life outside medicine happens outdoors — hiking local trails, fly-fishing Maine waters, and tending a growing Christmas-tree farm — grounding his work in the same community his patients call home.